

NOTHING WORTH STEALING

(Anytime)

Remember, that in most cases, before a burglar enters a home he does not know what he will find to steal. He assumes you have something he wants and, once he is inside, he will find something to make the risk of being caught worthwhile. It may be cash or jewellery, tvs, videos, computers, cameras or antiques. These days, even the contents of an average home freezer are worth a second look to a thief especially if it is unlocked.

Look around your own home – you value your possessions – the chances are, the thief will do as well.
